

Armor Plate Press.

Review by Chris Bryan.

A.M.P.S. 2011 has recently come and gone. We were there as vendors. Once we were set up for the show, I looked around at all the other vendors to see who our neighbors would be for the next three days. Some we knew some were new. One of the new friends we were to make was Tom with Armor Plate Press. At first glance I thought this is just another reference vendor re-hashing the same old stuff, that is where the story takes a turn. Tom, after getting to know him, I discovered is a tremendously nice person, and very well versed in the history of our great craft. We don't want to make Tom blush so on to the good stuff.

Armor Plate Press has some of the most amazing reference pictures and books I have ever seen. Tom has a 8 x 11 pic of a T-34 with a officer standing in front of it with a female driver WOW oh and the vehicle is in a "Hull Down" position. I personally came away from the Armor Plate Press table with a fist full of amazing T-34 and T-34 pics. They are all in the original black and white and the quality is stunning. Also the re-production of the 1944 armor vehicle identification manual was a great find. Tom has some of the most amazing reference material I have ever seen ranging from individual photos to books to magazines and videos. Don't just take my word for it check out Toms great site:
